There is every indication that the clay-pigeon shoot at Wyman park on the Fourth of July will be a bigger affair than the Ellsworth gun club anticipated. The prizes for the shoot are displayed in the window of H. F. Westcott's store.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic for the Week
Beginning July 3, 1910.

Topic.—What is Christian citizenship?—Pa. cxvii, 1-3; Rev. xxi, 1-3 (Consecration meeting). Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Tomorrow is Independence day, the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. It is fitting that upon the eve of such a day our attention should be turned to our duties toward our country, or what we call citizenship, and, going a step further, Christian citizenship. We might ask, "In what does Christian citizenship differ from plain citizenship?" Why should we not simply speak of the duties of citizenship, which all men in general owe to the state or nation to which they belong? It might be truthfully said that there is no difference. One man who enjoys the privileges and protection of a nation owes as much to his country as every other man in the same position. This is really true in fact. But Christians, professing faith in the God of nations and in Christ, the King of kings, are expected to have higher conceptions even of citizenship than others and to perform more faithfully their duties even to civil governments. If duty requires us in any phase of life to go one mile, the Christian should go two.

As Christian citizens today we should remember God's hand in the history of our country. He brought here in the settlement of our land the best Christian blood of Europe, men willing to fight and die if necessary to enjoy both civil as well as religious freedom. In all our internal and external struggles God has been with us as a nation. In the war for independence, in the war for perpetuation and our lesser wars with foreign countries "the God of battles" has been with us. We may exclaim with the psalmist, "If it had not been the Lord that was on our side, * * * then they would have swallowed us up quick when their wrath was kindled against us." But God was with us. The Lord of hosts was our King of glory. Remembering these things, we should show our gratitude by keeping our nation a Christian nation and even increasing its faith in God, so that in all future struggles and in times of peace and prosperity God will still be our God, and we shall be blessed, for "blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."

To the end of continuing our nation as a Christian nation we should ever pray for her and those in all places of authority. We should bear our part cheerfully and willingly in performing our duties to local, state and national government. In rendering unto God the things that are God's we should also render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's. The Christian who has the right and does not vote is as much responsible for misgovernment in all its different phases as those who do vote and elect men who will sell their votes and corrupt legislation. The man who is too lazy, too busy or too indifferent to exercise his right of franchise should be compelled to do it or lose it altogether. The best men often neglect their duties, while the worst take perhaps extra advantage of theirs, voting for the ones who do not go to the polls. And who's to blame? Primarily the man who stays away. What right, moreover, have they to complain of bad government if they stay at business or comfortably at home and refuse to perform their duties while the others use their power to put themselves in places of trust and then betray that trust? None whatever. The man who abuses officeholders for 364 days of the year and then on the three hundred and sixty-fifth day remains away from the primaries, where they exist, and, more important, from the election should "put his hand over his mouth." He deserves all he gets. What we need more than anything else today in our political life is that all good men should vote. The time will soon come, then, when all parties will put forth only good men for office, knowing that the other kind will be defeated. Parties want to win, and the people can have just what they want if they put it up to them to nominate good men or face defeat. Let every young man in the Christian Endeavor society after he reaches his "freedom day" vote at every election and for good men regardless of party. Men and not platform measures should largely guide us in voting. A good man with a bad party behind him can accomplish more for civic righteousness than a bad man with a good party behind him. And may the day never come when our Christian Endeavor young ladies will want to vote. They have their rights, and many of them, in this great country. They have their defenders also in their own great land. In no land on earth, though there may be little of red tape about it, have women more true hearted and braver defenders than in this land. Their rights in all their relations to the state are well guarded in the hands of nearly 20,000,000 brave and courageous men.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. vi, 8-10; Neh. ii, 1-5; Ps. xxxiii, 10-22; Prov. xiv, 34; Jer. xxi, 7; Matt. xvii, 24-27; xxii, 15-21; Mark xii, 13-17; Rom. xlii, 1-7; 1 Tim. ii, 1-4; Heb. xi, 8-16.

The Prayer Meeting as a Test.

The activity and spiritual life of a church are gauged by its prayer meeting more than in any other one thermometer. The activity and spiritual life of the individual Christian are gauged in the same way. It cannot be a mere coincidence that the most active and liberal Christian workers are the prayer meeting Christians. There must be here a cause and effect. It is a good test for any church to apply to its own life.—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE.
If you have a tender message,
Or a loving word to say,
Do not wait till you forget it,
But whisper it to-day;
The tender word unsaid,
The letter never sent,
The long-forgotten message,
The wealth of love unsent;
For these some hearts are breaking,
For these some love ones wait;
So show them that you care for them
Before it is too late.

First of all, we will have the Sunshine story:

A SMILE FACTORY.

The following, which is from the Sunday School Times, applies to the whole world. It suggests "smile factories" of many kinds, if first there were the kind heart and the willing mind.

Come and go out to the front yard gate with me and see me make some smiles. They are very fine, and yet are inexpensive and easily made.

I'll tell you how I do it. In November, when my neighbor pruned her fine roses, I took forty-eight of the cuttings and put them in the ground just where I wished them to grow, with a handful of clean sand about the lower end. Over each was put a glass fruit jar, hilling up the earth about these protectors.

These were left on through the winter and until the spring was well advanced. Then I had forty-three small rosebushes which, with a little cultivation, grew rapidly and soon began to bloom.

Now the smile factory is ready. I go out near the front gate where the roses are in a row along the drive, and wait for some one to fit a smile on. Judging from what I hear them say the girls must have considerable trouble, sometimes, in fitting their frocks. But I never fail to fit a fine smile on any one—fat, lean, tall, short, old or young—the very first trial.

Here come two bright girls on their way to school. "Take your choice," I call, as I hold up an American Beauty and a La France. Each pins one on her shirtwaist, and with a hearty "thank you, thank you," they trip away wearing two smiles that would grace a queen.

Next a young man comes spinning by on his bicycle. I hold up a fine bud with a beckoning motion. Of course he stops, and I give the bud, with a pin to fasten it on the lapel of his coat. The smile he carries away is a becoming companion for the lovely rosebud.

An old "black mammy" has been down town to deliver the week's washing to several families. The black face looks tired and sad. "Mammy, let me give you these two big, red roses." "Oh, thank you! Aint they sweet?" and, with a courtesy, she goes on, the dear old motherly face illumined with a smile that is good to see.

Toward evening a railroad laborer passes with empty dinner pail, going home. "Take these to the wife," and I hand him a bunch of beauties. A smile lights up the toll-hardened face and the step is sprightlier as he goes down the track.

And so I may, and so I will, go on indefinitely making smiles that suggest that land where there shall no sorrow. And every time I fit one of the new-made smiles on another's face I feel one playing over my own face.

Does my smile factory pay? Indeed it does; pays big dividends. Start one yourself; not much capital is necessary; and, judging from the sober, sad, grief-stricken, toll-hardened and care-worn faces, there are not now nearly enough smiles made to go around.

Every day I pass a yard, at a street crossing, that is radiant with roses, and none of them is ever cut. I wish I could have it for a few weeks at least. I'd establish in the corner, where so many smileless people pass, a free dispensary, and as long as the roses lasted that should be the most smileful street corner in town.—Sunshine Bulletin.

I doubt not the readers of the column can recall the gift of a flower to themselves, which brought them peace or pleasure or comfort. Thinking this over as I write brings me pictures of the past—a whole series of them, from the flower-show on Boston common, which has always seemed to me the nearest like to heaven of anything earth ever presented to my view, to the tiny lily-of-the-valley for which I forgot to thank the donor (at the time).

How many such gifts we can remember, and how these flowers brightened the way, not only at the time when we were weary or sad, but the memory of them lingers through the years.

The summer season is again with us. Only a few months in the year do we have the chance to enjoy with our various senses "the green things growing." We will not think all the time of the destroying insects that lie in wait for rose bushes and potato leaves, squashes and hackmatack trees, but we will search, if we are country folks, for a few wild strawberries; we will observe the growth of the young trees either set out for shade or for fruit; we will watch the nodding field daisies (they were once known as "white weed") and the thrifty farmers of seventy years ago pulled them up by the roots and sought to keep their field clear of them); we will take time to notice the cloud shadows floating over the mountain-side and slopes of fields.

Now, all you busy, tired ones, leave the

WHAT A SUMMER COLD MAY DO.
A summer cold if neglected is just as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other season. Do not neglect it. Take Foley's Honey and Tar promptly. It loosens the cough, soothes and heals the inflamed air passages, and expels the cold from the system. G. A. PARCHEE.

Ask the doctor, the nurse, or the druggist about it. It is for coughs, irritation of the throat, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles. The price is 25c. and 50c. a bottle.

THIRD OPERATION PREVENTED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was so sick that two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation. I had already had two operations, and they wanted me to go through a third one. I suffered day and night from inflammation and a small tumor, and never thought of seeing a well day again. A friend told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her, and I tried it, and after the third bottle was cured."—MRS. ALVINA SPERLING, 1468 Clybourne Ave., Chicago, Ill.

If you are ill do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until an operation is necessary, but build up the feminine system, and remove the cause of those distressing aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

work undone awhile if need be, but get some wholesome changes out of these summer days. Don't wait till the sun has browned the hillsides and the fresh beauty of the season has faded into the prospect of an "early fall." Take it at its best and get some health-inspiring tonic out of it.

There isn't a word in this little chat that was in the sermonette that travelled so long. It became worn-out in the struggle to be heard and this little appeal for summer enjoyment. All comes from practising what I am preaching here, and from getting out in the fresh breezes and sunny skies of June, as well as taking a few minutes' time to see your good and faithful neighbors.

How the children love these days! And Whittier's "Barefoot Boy", though unheard of by many of them, is impersonated times without number. They are happy just with the joy of living. Well for us if we could keep longer more of the natural vitality of existence. Like the freshness of the season, it changes to the browning tints which foreshadow a harvesting. And so the world moves on.

AUNT MADGE.

The Big Circus at Bangor.

Forepaugh & Sells Bros.' big circus is scheduled to exhibit in Bangor on Wednesday, July 6, and their big united shows are sure to draw crowds from every direction.

This concern is probably the biggest amusement enterprise ever organized. It is said to have cost over $3,000,000. Every corner of the earth has been searched for novelties. The result is a performance brim full of sensational acts, the largest zoo in America and a three-mile parade. This parade is a veritable world's fair and a panoramic history of the earth from the days before the flood up to the last tick of the clock.

This circus is fifty years old. This year it returns bigger, better and more attractive than ever. On its list of performers there are 350 names. These great stars have been gathered from European arenas. Among them are the three Tybell sisters, who present a "Human Butterfly" aerial spectacle which electrified all Europe last winter; Karl Handley and his company of German acrobats; Paul Alvarez, of Spain, the greatest head-balancer on earth; the Avalons from England, the best of all high-wire artists; Capt. Webb and his two troupes of trained seals; Nellie Welch, of Australia, the only woman double-somersault equestrian in the world; Ada Bell Edwards, the world's strongest woman, and the wonderful Alvo family of acrobats from Italy.

The greatest trained animal act in all history is presented by sixty-one horses. They appear at one time in one ring. There are also the fifteen best educated elephants on earth. They perform in company with three companies of trained dogs.

In the menagerie there are 780 wild animals, and the street parade must be seen to be appreciated. Never in its history has it displayed such extravagance as it shows this year.

The organization now numbers 1,000 employees and has 600 horses. When under canvas the show covers ten acres of ground. The circus carries its own lighting plant.

The holiday of a lifetime is near at hand. Without a doubt many from this vicinity will see the newly-organized Adam Forepaugh & Sells Bros.' shows.

Truly, there is a tide in the affairs of men, but there is no gulf stream, setting forever in one direction.—Lowell.

Among the Grangers.

This column is devoted to the Grange, especially to the granges of Hancock county. The column is open to all grangers for the discussion of topics of general interest, and for reports of grange meetings. Make letters short and concise. All communications must be signed, but names will not be printed except by permission of the writer. All communications will be subject to approval by the editor, but none will be rejected without good reason.

BROOKLIN, 251.

Brooklin grange held its regular meeting June 21, with twenty-two members and four visitors present. After business was transacted, the lecturer presented a short program which was followed by a candy-pull. The evening was much enjoyed.

BAYSIDE, 476, ELLSWORTH.

Bayside grange met June 22 with an attendance of sixty-eight members, and six visitors from Lamoine and Nicolin granges. Two candidates were instructed in the first degree. After recess the contest was commenced by the single members, and for nearly two hours Bayside hall was a lively place. Everything that could be thought of was done. The score was 7,000, and they are now over 5,000 ahead of the married members.

LAMOINE, 284.

Green Mountain Pomona met with Lamoine grange June 21, holding an interesting and profitable session.

The evening program by Lamoine grange was as follows: Instrumental music, Audrey Hodgkins; recitation, Eunice Coggins; song and encore, Laccordia Davis; tableaux, S. J. Young; recess; solo, Mrs. Davis; farce, "A Double Shuffle"; instrumental music, J. T. Grant, and a pantomime, "The Star Spangled Banner." Remarks were made by a number of visiting brothers and sisters. About 105 were present.

KITTELY TO CARIBOU.

Everett B. Norton, formerly clerk of the ways and means committee of Congress, and for a number of years in the internal revenue service and the postal service, laying out rural free delivery routes and traveling from Maine to Dakota, died Wednesday at his home in Farmington. He was one of the vice-presidents of the Maine Society of Sons of the Revolution, and a member of the Society of Mayflower descendants. He was about fifty years old.

Because his wife, abetted by her mother, Mrs. Iva Woodward, declared she was going to leave him because of his temper and threats, David Downes, of Springfield, aged thirty-three years, on Sunday morning, grabbed his rifle and shot them both and then turned the weapon on himself. Death was instantaneous in all three cases.

Passenger Airship.

The first regular airship passenger service was inaugurated recently in Germany, when Count Zeppelin's great craft, the Deutschland, carrying passengers, successfully made the first scheduled trip from Friedrichshafen to Dusseldorf, a distance of 300 miles, in nine hours.

The average time maintained for the complete course was thirty-three miles an hour, but between Friedrichshafen and Stuttgart, the 124 miles was covered at an average rate of forty-one miles an hour. The best speed for a single hour was forty-three and one-half miles.

The passengers occupied the mahogany-walled and carpeted cabin situated between the gondolas, from the windows of which they viewed the scenery as the car swept along.

The people of the cities on the line and the inhabitants of all the intermediate villages turned out and cheered enthusiastically as the immense torpedo-like structure, with its whistling screw, drove over their heads at a height from the surface of between 200 and 300 feet.

Regular trips will be made, and many tickets have already been sold for the first few days at from $25 to $50 each. The airship is equipped with a restaurant, which will supply the passengers with a buffet service such as is afforded on parlor-car trains.

The dimensions of the Deutschland are: Length, 485 feet; width, twenty-six feet. Its gas capacity is 24,852 cubic yards, and it carries three motors, having a total of 330 horsepower. Its lifting capacity is 44,000 pounds.

TO THE ACCOMPANIMENT OF MUSIC AND ORATORY—SPEECHES BY PLAISTED, GOULD AND PATTANGALL.

The democrats of Hancock county in convention this afternoon placed in nomination their candidates for county offices. The convention was large and enthusiastic. There was no lack of oratory, and music by the Ellsworth Falls band helped to enliven the occasion. Hancock hall was well filled.

The convention was called to order by Dr. Otis Littlefield, chairman of the democratic county committee, who read the call. Prayer was offered by Rev. R. B. Mathews, of Ellsworth.

Among those on the stage were Thomas Hooper, of Gouldsboro, Albert E. Mace, of Aurora, and R. P. Harriman, of Bucksport. Eliot N. Benson, of Bar Harbor, was introduced as temporary chairman, and Adelbert W. Gordon, of Sullivan, and J. A. Cunningham, of Ellsworth, as secretaries. Mr. Benson, in taking the chair, spoke briefly.

The county committee was appointed committee on credentials.

The temporary organization was made permanent.

D. E. Hurley, of Ellsworth, Dr. Otis Littlefield, of Bluehill, and W. H. Sherman, of Bar Harbor, were appointed committee on resolutions.

N. H. Means, of Ellsworth, aged eighty-six years; Stephen Bennett, of Bucksport, eighty-four and D. G. Means, of Surry, aged seventy-eight, three of the oldest democrats in the hall, were invited to seats on the stage.

Albert E. Mace, for the committee on credentials, reported 143 delegates present.

THE PLATFORM.

The committee on resolutions reported the following:

At this point Frederick W. Plaisted, of Augusta, the democratic nominee for governor, and Samuel W. Gould, nominee for Congress from the third district, and W. R. Pattangall, of Waterville, entered upon the stage, and were greeted with cheers, the delegates rising to their feet.

COUNTY COMMITTEE.

A recess of ten minutes was taken to allow delegates from the several classes to choose members of the county committee. During the recess Mr. Plaisted came down to the floor of the hall and shook hands with many of the delegates.

The county committee as finally reported to the convention is as follows:

A suburban minister was making his rounds one day when he met a member of his congregation, an old farm hand, who said: "And how be your daughter this mornin', yer Reverence?" "My daughter," exclaimed the parson, "why, she is quite well, thank you." "What!" exclaimed the rustic, "why I heard she had a bicycle accident yesterday, and busted her inner tube."

John Burroughs is never tired of ridiculing the new school of nature writers, the school that attributes a quite human intelligence to animals and insects.

"Mr. Burroughs dined with me one night," said a magazine editor of New York, "and among my guests was a young nature writer of the new school."

"This young man told a wonderful story about the intelligence of oysters. He said he was going to put the story in his new book. Mr. Burroughs gave a dry laugh and said:

"Let me tell you about a cat. This story is quite as authentic as the other one, and it should do for your book nicely."

"The venerable student paused impressively, then said: "A Springfield couple had a cat that age had rendered helpless, and they put it out of its misery by means of chloroform. They buried it in the garden, and planted a rose bush over its remains. The next morning a familiar scratching took them to the front door, and there was the cat waiting to be let in, with the rose bush under its arm."

EASTERN STARS.

Harbor View chapter, O. E. S., entertained Lone Star chapter, of Islesboro, and S. K. Whiting chapter, of Castine, Wednesday. The visitors, about sixty-five, chartered the steamer Silver Star and arrived at Deer Isle at 6 p. m. They were met at the wharf by a reception committee with buckboards to convey them to the masonic hall, where a bountiful banquet was served.

After the banquet the visitors spent an hour or two visiting the interesting points around the town. At 8.30 the chapter was called to order, the hall being entirely filled. The worthy matron of Harbor View chapter delivered an address of welcome, which was responded to by the worthy matrons of Lone Star and S. K. Whiting chapters and others. The degrees were worked on two candidates.

After work an interesting program was carried out, consisting of readings, music, dialogue and tableaux. One of the most interesting features was the rendering of a song of welcome, written by a member of Harbor View chapter, by ten young ladies dressed in gowns of white, each carrying a banner of white. At one part of the music, the banners were reversed and the names of "Lone Star" and "S. K. Whiting" appeared, each on five banners. Varied colored lights were turned on to the group at intervals and made the tableaux very effective.

After interesting remarks by the visitors they again repaired to the banquet hall where cake and fruit punch were served. The party left for their home about 12 o'clock, the bay and harbor sparkling in the moonlight as they started on their homeward trip which was not devoid of adventure.

As the party neared Hugh's point, Islesboro, the steamer struck a sunken ledge and filled. The people were all safely landed, however, and the Castine party telephoned for the Golden Rod, which came for them in the early morning. The Silver Star was quite seriously damaged, but the Eastern Stars are all right.

GRADUATIONS.

The graduation of the grammar school class took place at 2 o'clock Thursday at the hall above the school-room. The teacher, Miss Gray, is to be congratulated on the culmination of her labors. The class consisted of four girls, and Stanwood Boynton. The latter acted as marshal, leading the class of girls through the hall

The Conservation of Nature's Resources Applies as well to our physical state as to material things. C. J. Badgley, Washington, B. I., realized his condition, and took warning before it was too late. He says: "I suffered severely from kidney trouble, the disease being hereditary in our family. I have taken four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and now consider myself thoroughly cured. This should be a warning to all not to neglect taking Foley's Kidney Remedy until it is too late." G. A. PARCHER.

and to their places on the platform, where Mr. Gordon, the superintendent, and Rev. Mr. Bromley awaited them.

The parts were all well taken. The conclusion was a recitation from the youngest of the class, Mona Gordon, whose subject was "Strive to Succeed", and was finely rendered. The hall was beautifully decorated with green and white, the class colors, and the music by Miss Hawkins and Miss Bartlett was excellent the latter playing a fine solo, "Garden of Roses."

Thursday evening the Church of Our Father was filled at the graduation of the first class of the Sullivan high school. The class included four girls and four boys, who performed their parts very creditably to themselves and their teacher. The deportment of this class has been exceptionally good. The essays gave evidence of thought and originality, and also of high aims and purposes for the future. According to the "class prophecy" by Roscoe Hayes, if carried out, all will have, to say the least, useful lives.

The remarks of Mr. Gordon to the class, the teachers and the parents were well timed and full of high expectation for the future of the school.

The music was fine, Mrs. Hovey and Miss Hawkins at the organ and the West Sullivan choir. Solos were also rendered by Miss Bartlett and Miss Hall. The church was beautifully decorated with the class colors, blue green and gold.

A Good Reason.

Ellsworth People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Ellsworth people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. O. M. Alexander, 3 Washington St., Ellsworth, Me., says: "Some years ago I suffered severely from backache. The trouble was not constant but came on in spells, and often I had to give up and go to bed for the remainder of the day. When I awoke in the morning I had a terrible pain across my loins and was scarcely able to get about. My mother, knowing of my condition, procured a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills for me at Moore's drug store, and I began their use. I noticed an improvement after I had finished the contents of one box, and as I continued with the remedy my condition improved. From that time to this I have never had any serious return of kidney trouble and can praise Doan's Kidney Pills in the highest terms. Doan's Kidney Pills proved just as effective in my child's case, relieving him of backache and greatly strengthening his kidneys."

SEARCHED.

By HARRY VAN AMBUE.
(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)
"Donhoff!"
"In heaven's name, what is it?"
"The police!"
Donhoff sprang up and darted to a closet, seized a package of papers and threw them into the stove, watching a bright streak in its side—a crack—till the flame died out, when he turned to his friend, who had hurried in to warn him.
"Any one peached?" he asked quickly.
"Yes, Alex."
At that moment there was a step on the stairs. Donhoff turned pale, clapping his hand to his coat pocket at the same time. But he did not speak; there was no time. The door was thrown open, and an officer of police stepped into the apartment.
Donhoff had a letter in his pocket that he had forgotten. It was from the chief of his revolutionary society detailing a plan for the assassination of the minister of the interior. It had been written using assumed names, and some attempt had been made to disguise the different steps to be taken by using commonplace words and acts. Nevertheless in the hands of the police it would be interpreted without trouble.
But no finer display of nerve was ever given by a man. Donhoff faced the officer with well feigned surprise.
"Pardon me, sir," said the officer. "I am ordered to search your apartment."
"What for?"
"That is a matter which concerns the government."
"I have an enemy. Doubtless he has accused me. I desire that you should make a thorough search, that I may be vindicated and may punish him. I will aid you."
"In any event that will do you no harm."
"Here are my keys. I beg of you to open every drawer, look in every corner."
The officer took the keys and opened everything that was locked. He hunted through closets, desk, bookcases. Donhoff went about with him, assisted him and often called his attention to places that he had either overlooked or had not yet reached. When he had taken the books from a case and shaken them Donhoff seized one of the volumes and, turning over the leaves, took out a paper, handing it to the officer. The latter opened it, glanced over it and handed it back to the owner. Not a scrap of incriminating paper had been found, and the officer was beginning to tire of the work when Donhoff opened a drawer brim full of papers.
"Come," he said. "These must be looked over carefully. I don't wish you to go back to headquarters without being able to vindicate me entirely."
He handed each paper to the officer separately, opening it and insisting on his reading it. The officer read a few, glanced at others, and when he had finished the suspect opened another drawer equally voluminous. The officer began to tire of the work, but Donhoff insisted on his doing it thoroughly.
Then Donhoff began to rip up the carpet.
"Never mind that," said the searcher. "I am not instructed to tear things to pieces."
"But I do mind it. If a gentleman is to be treated as a felon he is at least entitled to have the work done thoroughly, that he may not have a second party to go through the effects."
So the officer was obliged to take hold and help get up the carpet. Of course nothing was found.
"That will do," said the tired man, "it only remains to—"
Donhoff knew very well that the sentence finished would be "search you." He rushed to a closet and took down an old portmanteau in which there were more papers. The officer sighed and began to look them over.
"Hello!" exclaimed Donhoff. "There is a batch of business papers which I have long mislaid."
Seizing the papers, he opened every one of them, showed each to the officer, who looked at it perfunctorily, and when he had seen all Donhoff asked if he objected to his putting them in his pocket. He received the necessary permission.
Donhoff dared not put the officer off any longer from his search of himself.
"Come, now!" he said. "I must insist on your going over me as thoroughly as you have examined my effects."
He began to disrobe.
"That isn't necessary!" said the officer, almost angrily.
"Well, then, here, and here, and here."
He thrust his hand in his coat pocket where was the incriminating paper and in which he had put the papers from the portmanteau and, pulling out all together, began to open them under the officer's nose.
"I've seen those."
"So you have."
When Donhoff said this he was unfolding the letter that would have sent him to Siberia or death and, holding it for a moment so near the officer's eyes that he couldn't easily read it, he refolded it and thrust it back in his pocket. Then, turning all his other pockets wrong side out, he asked:
"Well, are you satisfied?"
The officer turned up his heel and went out without a word, indignant that the man he had been sent to search had annoyed him by insisting on so much attention.
When the door closed behind him Donhoff fell over in a faint.

HOT WEATHER AND CONSTIPATION.
There is a close connection between hot weather and constipation. People do not seem to understand this, and even doctors are slow in comprehending it.
Constipation depends mainly on dryness of the bowels. During the hot weather the fluids of the body are drained away in perspiration. Unless considerable extra fluid is drunk, the internal organs are deprived of their usual amount of fluid. The fluids usually used by the bowels to keep the contents moist, are absorbed into the blood and evaporated on the surface of the body, to cool the body during the hot weather. Hence, constipation.
It is very unfortunate indeed, for any one to be obliged to take drastic cathartics to relieve constipation. Of course drastic cathartics will clean out the bowels, but the habit of constipation remains just the same. Even a little worse.
If a mild and gentle stimulant of the bowels is used, combined with a tonic that has the double effect of stimulating the natural peristaltic action of the bowels, as well as attracting to the bowels the necessary portion of fluids, if such a remedy could be devised it would be of great value to the people during the hot weather.
It is believed that Peruna comes nearer to being a perfect remedy in this particular than any other popular household remedy. Taken according to the directions on the bottle, it not only increases the appetite and gives strength to the nervous system, but it produces a slight action of the bowels, overcoming constipation without producing a cathartic action.
We are in receipt of a great many letters confirming the statements made above. One will suffice for illustration: Mr. William Eckert, 273 North Eighteenth St., Columbus, Ohio, writes:
"I have been afflicted with chronic constipation for twenty-five years. About six months ago I was feeling badly, and concluded to use Peruna as a tonic. To my surprise, before I had finished the first bottle of Peruna I noted that my bowels were moving regularly, without any physic. From that time to this my constipation has disappeared. Peruna has not only built me up, but it has cured me of chronic constipation."
